Culture Note: FAQ Q: I hope the game fares better in Europe than it did in America, it was so disappointing. A: We're sorry that you didn't enjoy it as much as you wanted to. We have already heard that the game did much better in Europe and we are very happy about that. We are planning to bring this experience to our European audience as soon as possible. Q: Why is the sound quality so poor? A: We wanted to create a unique experience that offered an immersive gameplay experience, and for that reason the audio recording device was very expensive. We hope you understand. We will make sure to improve this for the American edition. Q: Can I change my character? A: Yes. In the main menu, select the character you wish to recruit. Then, when the character is ready

Field of the Invention The present invention relates to processes used for the recovery of metals from metals-bearing ores and, more particularly, relates to a process for the recovery of valuable metals from zinc-containing ores. 2. Description of the Prior Art It has heretofore been suggested that valuable metals may be extracted from zinc-containing ores by contacting the zinc containing ore with an acidic sulfide-selective solvent. Illustrative of such processes are U.S. Pat. Nos. 4,093,520; 4,118,388; 4,156,636; 4,173,574; and 4,254,073. While known acid leaching processes have succeeded in the recovery of valuable metals from certain types of zinc containing ores, these processes have not proven to be fully satisfactory. Because of such deficiencies, there has been a need for more effective processes for the recovery of zinc values from these ores. Accordingly, it is an object of the present invention to provide a process for the recovery of valuable metals from metal-bearing ores, and more particularly from zinc-containing ores, using a hydrometallurgical process.
